

3RWW is pleased to have teamed up with our environmental partners to develop a FREE webinar series on flooding for homeowners and business owners beginning on July 27. We encourage you to publicize the webinar announcement (below) on all of your social media sites to reach your community audience. This educational program may assist in meeting your public education requirements under the Stormwater Phase II Rule for MS4s and CSO Control Policy for combined sewers.

Flood Education Series for Homeowners & Business Owners

Learn from experts about the basics of why it floods, ways to prepare yourself before and after, and how to recover from a flood event.

Are you a homeowner or a business owner in Allegheny County? Have you been asking yourself: Why is my basement flooding? Why is the street flooding? What do I do in a flood? How do I protect my house? When do I evacuate?

Join the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, 3 Rivers Wet Weather, ALCOSAN, Allegheny County Conservation District, PA Dept. of Environmental Protection, PA Emergency Management Agency, Federal Emergency Management Agency, Pittsburgh Water and Sewer Authority, Southwestern Pennsylvania Commission and Watersheds of South Pittsburgh for a flood education workshop series to answer those questions. You'll learn about the basics of flooding, how to prepare and protect yourself and your property, available resources and contacts, and other important information to empower yourself and the people you care about before, during and after a flood.

Event Details

There are a total of five virtual sessions, lasting about an hour each, starting at 6 pm each Tuesday from July 27th to August 24th. Please attend each session for a complete learning experience.

The first 100 people who register can attend the live series. Each of the five sessions will be recorded and available to view online.
